Short Statement (less than 100 words):

I nominate D. Grasso for her scientific knowledge and achievements that range from laboratory to space plasmas, for her proven organizational capabilities in running a very productive research group, in establishing effective international collaborations, conceiving and organizing successful scientific meetings with an active implementation of gender balance and in general for her activity within various Equality Committees, for her ability to address problems in a rational and concrete way, respecting other people positions and roles but at the same time showing leadership, for her ability to communicate with people in a positive way that leads to agreement and not to confrontation.

Grasso is a member of the EPS
